Rarely Performed Haydn Concerto To Be Featured At CBC Dec. 13

A rarely performed Haydn concerto for harpsichord and violin will be featured at a violin-harpsichord recital at CBC on December 13.
Ruth Freeman Coehlo, violinist, and Ronald Ratcliffe, harpsichordist, will present a public concert at 3 p.m. today, the 13th, at the college. They will be accompanied by a string orchestra from the college.
Mrs. Coehlo, who received BA and MA degrees in violin performance from the University of Washington, is well known in Pacific Northwest music circles, having played with the Seattle and Spokane symphony orchestras. She is currently a music instructor at CBC.
Ratcliffe, who received his degree from the University of Southern California, has studied with noted Viennese harpsichordist Alice Ehlers. He has performed extensively in the Los Angeles area, doing both concert work, and has also been widely heard in the Northwest. He is at present teaching in Richland.
The Haydn double concerto in F Major was composed in 1755 for solo violin, solo cello (harpsichord) and string orchestra. Haydn, although a composer of the Classic Era, reverted to the popular concerto grosso form of the Baroque. The concerto grosso is a form in which the elements of contrast between a solo group and an orchestral group was the prime objective. His work of Haydn's is not often heard because of a lack of recent publication and copyright restrictions. The concerto has not been published in the United States.
Besides the Haydn concerto, the program will include Bach's "Fantasy in C Minor" and his "Capriccio on the De-Brother," Handel's "Sonata in A Major for Violin and Figured Bass," Three Sonatas by D. Scarlatti.

Harpsichord Described
The harpsichord is a 14th century attempt to combine the sound of the lute with the then popular organ keyboard, because the lute had become too difficult to play due to its increasing number of strings (as many as 32).
Similar to the organ, the organ, the harpsichord has no variation of sound due to the action; however, tonal varieties are made through the use of as many as four sets of strings, each with a differing quality—some tuned an octave higher, some an octave lower, with at least one set at standard pitch. Any combination of these sets of strings may be used.
Mr. Ratcliffe's unit was made by Hans Neuprest of Nuremberg, Germany in 1953. Its registration consists of four sets of strings, including two 8-foot (standard pitch), one 4-foot (one octave higher), and one 16-foot (one octave lower). It also employs a manual coupler, a device coupling the action of the upper to the lower keyboard.
Terms Defined
The use of the word "foot" comes from organ terminology in regard to the length of pipe used for a given pitch.
The fantasy in C Minor is a virtuosic piece in two parts using a free form. The free fantasy form was not new to Bach, as it was a favorite improvisation used throughout the Baroque era.
In 1704, Bach's brother Johann Jacob left to become an oboist in the army of Charles XII of Sweden. On that occasion Bach wrote this Capriccio to the absence of his brother.

VINCENT SHEEAN Trumpet Player To Appear Here

Rafael Mendez, famous trumpet player, will appear at the Pasco High School auditorium December 7, with a 70 piece band of college and high school musicians. Admission is 50 cents.
Mendez will play the Mexican Hat Dance, Tico Tico, and three other tunes. The band directed by John Fitzpatrick of CBC, will also play five selections.
Mendez, a member of a musical family in Mexico, was an accomplished trumpet player at five. The Mendez family orchestra became Pancho Villa's official orchestra after several months of following the army they were allowed to return home. Rafael, then six, stayed with the army until they went into battle.
After many years of saving, he finally came to the United States where he got a job for a factory band.
Although his lip was seriously injured by a swinging door, Mendez became successful. His success brought him much concert and radio work, a Hollywood Bowl appearance, and a motion picture contract.
Mendez's busy schedule does not keep him from playing for high school bands all over the nation.

AWS Sponsors Frosh Formal

The annual AWS - Frosh sponsored winter formal will be December 12, from 9-12 in the CBC lounge. "The Twelfth of Never," is the theme chosen for this year's formal.

Terry Duncan will be the master of ceremonies at the floor show featuring the Kennewick High School "Mad Hatters" and several other variety acts.
A best looking couple will be chosen at the dance by the patrons and patronesses and this couple will reign over the formal.
The dance band is from Whitman College in Walla Walla.
Pictures of the couples will be taken at the dance for $1.50. Price of the dance is $1.50 per couple.

Red Theory Peace Threat

Red China's racial theory may be the greatest threat to world peace at present, warned Vincent Sheean today.
Sheean, a noted international journalist and foreign correspondent, spoke at the Pasco High School. The lecture, sponsored by Columbia Basin College, was attended by high school and college students, faculty members, and some townspeople.
Sheean began his lecture by explaining that the Red Chinese expound the theory that anyone with a Mongolian head structure is naturally a subject of the People's Republic of China. He stated that this was Red China's excuse for taking over Tibet, even though some Tibetans have fair hair and blue eyes. Since this theory could be applied to vast areas of Siberia and Russia, Sheean feels that there may eventually be a split in Red China's alliance with Russia. Korea and all of southwest Asia could also be affected by the theory.
Continuing with this thought, the journalist said, "Red China's racial theory is much more a threat to peace than the nuclear weapons of any major power." On the whole, however, he feels that, "World War III is, practically speaking, impossible." He supported this by pointing out that today foreign correspondents abroad feel little of the tension that was evident when Hitler was coming into power in the 1930's.
This ability to sense rising tension is one of the rewards of international journalism, the correspondent declared. "A person in this field gets a feeling of how things are going and how they are going to turn out. Sometimes this is called premonition, but I believe it is more a matter of being familiar with the situation," he said.
As an example of this ability to sense impending events, he cited the assassination of India's spiritual leader, Gandhi. In 1947, everything Sheean had learned led to the feeling that Gandhi would be assassinated. Following up his idea, the editors of "Holiday" sent him to India to interview the leader. Early in 1948 he wrote the editors that Gandhi's death would come very shortly. The letter arrived the day of the assassination.
Sheean feels that this awareness he experiences in writing has been greatly sharpened by his interest in music. "Music has a message that is more intimate and powerful

Nothing Ventured, Nothing Gained

There is no sympathy in the editor's heart for students who refer to time spent at CBC as a "drag." Perhaps it is a "drag" because those persons who speak of it as such don't wish to step out of the mud and onto the land of cooperative effort towards progressive achievement.

It has been this writer's personal observation that in order to catch a mouse, one must either be willing to sacrifice a little cheese or wait a long time.

By the same token, unless a student is willing to sacrifice enough of his time to investigate the possibilities for fulfillment of his desires, there is little hope that he will gain ground along these lines.

The clubs and organizations are numerous here at CBC and the number of active members is multiplying, but there is always room for more participants.

It is by joining various groups and by participating in various activities that one gains a sense of belonging and of school spirit.

Leisure time can become fruitful time if one is willing to make it so. On the other hand, if one is not willing to make a slight investment of himself, he should not expect a substantial return.

Faculty Forum

By SIG HANSON

Not so many years ago the one challenged in a duel had a choice of weapons, and whether he survived or not depended on his skill with those weapons.

That age may be long gone—but maybe not.

Having spent a few years watching young people go out into life generally prepared to meet the challenges of society and the world, I have gained several impressions which may be of value to others.

Those who value physical well-being and take pride in physical achievement have a pretty good fortress from which to fight the battle.

Those who are considerate of and cooperative with others build many allies that can be called on to volunteer their help in time of need.

Those who give it all they have whether it be making an honest try at an English course, being a stage manager, or a third string football player, develop quite an ability for coming through.

Most of all, those with the quality of efficiently making use of their time in furthering their mental and physical skills and abilities at every possible opportunity seem to be the happiest and most successful.

You're going to have to produce your weapons one of these days whether they be trained hands, eyes, mind, or what have you, they had better be the best you can create. Second rate skills may not win for you as an individual or for us as Americans.

Shadowed accent of the light-carved wood,
 Colored word, and touch that hears
 Within that varnished sheet
 The voice of rain, the seed in dying.
 Living in the life of some new tree
 Quelling laughter and hard terror,
 Keeping "cut-bank of destruction"
 From the grasp of careless men,
 Leave not words to darkness or to me.

Hawks Prepare For Coubabes

CORRECTION

In the November 20 issue of the Collegiate CBC's basketball schedule was published giving tonight as the Hawk's first game with WSU. That game has since been cancelled.

By DENNIS McGRAW

Behind the rebounding and scoring of Larry Gunn and Jerry Streeter, the "Blues" came from behind to squelch the "Reds," 68-57, in a "Meet the Hawks" scrimmage at Pasco High School auditorium on Monday.

The "Reds," employing four tentative starters for tomorrow's game, garnered a 29-27 halftime margin but couldn't keep the lead when Gunn connected for 15 points, and Streeter hit for 11 points in the second half to spark the comeback. Gunn was high for the game with 23 counters, and Streeter was next with 20.

Four "hopefuls" who might be on hand for the opening toss at Saturday night's game with the WSU Frosh collaborated for 45 of the "Reds'" 57 total. Fred Farrell scored 13 points, C. W. Brown and Dan Browning dropped in 11 each, and Bob Maulsby carded 10 in a futile effort to overhaul the "Blues."

In addition to the six players already mentioned, Coach Hank Coplen says that Rich Beck and Jerry Votendahl are expected to see plenty of action. WSU transfer, Dick Hannan, will be ineligible for the Hawks' first two games but will be ready for CBC's trip to Oregon next weekend.

In reference to the scrimmage Coplen said, "It was really good experience and gives the fellows a chance to get over the jitters of playing before a crowd. We had three or four kids that played really good ball."

Hoopling Hoopsters

By BILL DICKEY

Columbia Basin College basketball players have smoothed their winter growth of feathers and begun the tough game of basketball.

Leading high with the team this year will be: C. W.

Brown, Richland; John Rea, Pasco; Dick Hannan, Spokane; Rich Beck, Pasco; Larry Gunn, Pasco; Dan Browning, Cle Elum.

Tippy Schroll, Ritzland; Mel Stapleton, Spokane; Jerry Votendahl, Walla Walla; John Cochran, Kennewick; Mickey Arledge, Richland; Verne Moore, Burbank; Bob Maulsby, Richland; Dave Szendre, Kiona-Benton; Tom Shine, Pasco.

The division between varsity and junior varsity is as follows:

Varsity: Browning, Maulsby, Gunn, Moore, Arledge, Streeter, Farrell, Votendahl, Hannan, Louk, Shine, Stapleton, Brown.

Junior Varsity: Rea, Swan-da, Davis, Mosebar, Stephens, Batchelder, Barnes, Sherlock, Hankins, Schroll, Cochran, Szendre.

There are still possible changes in varsity and junior varsity positions this early in the season.

Columbia Basin will open its '59 season against WSU frosh at Pasco on December 5, followed by a game with Gonzaga University frosh at Pasco on December 8.

CBC's players are spirited and like to play basketball. They are putting their hearts into their practices. It is evident as each day progresses that CBC has a defending team for championship this season.

Players have had prior experience on basketball courts around the Washington, Oregon and Idaho area.

It is proven by past years that junior college basketball is fast and furious, of a quality built only for stamina and high spirited players. CBC has kept well up on the top by winning the championship one year and tying another. This year will be no different. CBC will qualify as a top contender.

Two returning lettermen, C. W. Brown and Rich Beck, will be on the roster this year.

Winter Track Begins Soon

"All we're waiting for now is to see what the Athletic Commission is going to decide," is the word from winter track coach Sig Hansen.

The Commission met yesterday and discussed the installation of a screen or curtain to be used as a separator on the stage in CBC's gym. This is where winter track aspirants will work out in preparation for Spring sports.

The winter track program, according to Hansen, will begin sometime after Christmas and will include weight-lifting and calisthenics. Most of the training will be done indoors, but as soon as the weather is warmer, the trainees will begin a little outdoor running and some work with the hurdles.

The only thing Hansen says is holding up workouts is the installation of a screen on the stage. However, he expects this to be completed between the fall and winter quarters.

Hansen added that CBC's first track meet of 1960 will be on the first of March at the WSU Indoor Meet at Pullman.

A new sign, under consideration by the A.S.B., will, if the funds are granted, take the place of the wooden sign that currently graces the campus lawn.

The proposed sign, designed after a hawk in flight, will be composed of metal and lighted by neon. The base will be of concrete.

Designed by former CBC student Roger Conrad, the triangle shaped sign will take up approximately 400 square feet of space, at a cost of approximately $1,800.

Dr. Jack Freund, Benton County Republican Party Chairman, was the guest of the Young Republicans, Tuesday, Nov. 24.

Dr. Freund discussed the workings of the Republican party on the precinct and county level. He explained in detail the structure of the precinct and just how the local precinct chooses their precinct committeeman.

Dr. Freund also discussed the duties of the county chairman and how he is chosen.

In talking about the structure of the party on the county and precinct level he stated that the Republicans and Democrats use the same organizational procedure.

Following Dr. Freund's talk there was a brief question and answer period. Dr. Freund also invited the Young Republicans to visit his home some evening to take part in an informal discussion on politics.

ILL-FATED FISHER

(ACP) — In a recent news story, the University of Southern California's "Daily Trojan" inadvertently demoted one Dr. S. C. Rittenberg, professor of bacteriology, to associate professor.

Dr. Rittenberg's reaction was a letter to editor Larry Fisher promising to name a nasty bacterium after him. Fisher apologized editorially to the professor, but this time his name came out as Rottenberg.

The scientist's next message: "Now I have no alternative. The next nasty bug I find gets your name. Please drop me a line with the correct spelling of your name given. I'd hate to make an error."
